Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I would like to voice my opinion that the proposed settlement for the Microsoft antitrust trial does not go nearly far enough in correcting the abuses committed by Microsoft. In fact, I think that it would only serve to encourage future similar behaviour by allowing Microsoft to keep gains that dwarf any 'penalty' imposed.

I also find it very disconcerting that a proposed penalty would have very possible effect of assisting Microsoft against competitors in new areas.

Thank you for your work in helping to ensure that large companies cannot use their weight in illegal ways to crush smaller competitors.

Sincerely,
Stephen R. Hulcher
